

TODAY

Apple announces WWDC 2020 coming in June as an 'online experience': Apple will reveal iOS 14 and more

Benjamin Mayo - Mar. 13th 2020 9:01 am PT □ @bzamayo

Apple has just announced WWDC for 2020, coming in June (no exact date specified). The conference will be presented as what Apple calls a completely new online experience, confirming that a physical event will not be happening this year due to coronavirus concerns.

In the online event, Apple will preview the future of iOS, iPadOS, macOS, watchOS and tvOS. Apple will also release developer betas at the same time.

Apple VP Phil Schiller said in a press statement that the current health situation has required that Apple change the format for this year. Just like many other tech conferences, the COVID-19 coronavirus outbreak announced a firm date for the keynote — just that the new WWDC will happen sometime in June.

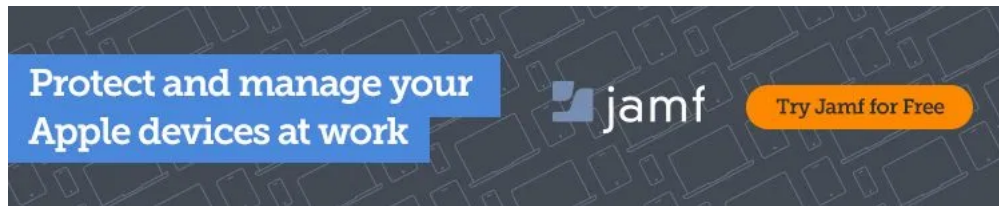

Craig Federighi, Apple SVP Software Engineering, teases the event: “With all of the new products and technologies we’ve been working on, WWDC 2020 is going to be big”.

Apple also said it will contribute $1 million to local San Jose organizations to help offset the economic hit to the city from WWDC not being held at a physical location.

Apple says it will share more details about its plans “between now and June”.

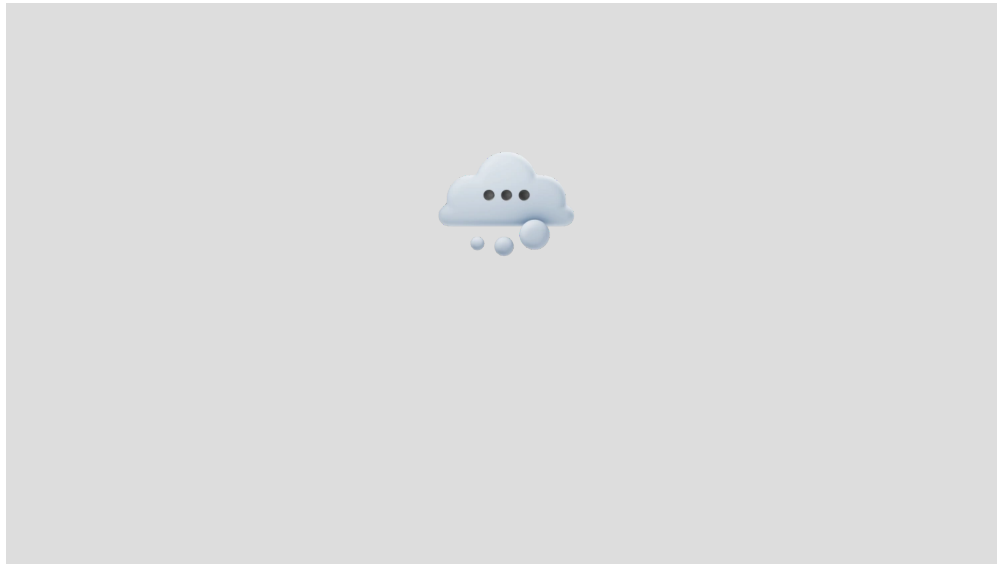

At WWDC, we expect Apple to announce its next generation operating systems: iOS 14, watchOS 7, macOS 10.16, tvOS 14 and more. 9to5Mac obtained internal iOS 14 builds this week, so check out the leaks to get a taste of what to expect.

FTC: We use income earning auto affiliate links. More.

You're reading 9to5Mac — experts who break news about Apple and its surrounding ecosystem, day after day. Be sure to check out our homepage for all the latest news, and follow 9to5Mac on Twitter, Facebook, and LinkedIn to stay in the loop. Don't know where to start? Check out our exclusive stories, reviews, how-tos, and subscribe to our YouTube channel

Check out 9to5Mac on YouTube for more Apple news:

About the Author

Benjamin Mayo

📧 @bzamayo

Benjamin develops iOS apps professionally and covers Apple news and rumors for 9to5Mac. Listen to Benjamin, every week, on the Happy Hour podcast. Check out his personal blog. Message Benjamin over email or Twitter.

Benjamin Mayo's favorite gear

iPhone Wireless Charger

Inexpensive, fast, wireless charger for iPhone.

Apple announces WWDC 2020 coming in June

Cursor coming to iOS 14, iPad Smart Keyboard trackpad

Apple Watch blood oxygen detection found in iOS 14