

SAT and PSAT-Related Coronavirus Updates

Other Coronavirus Updates

As College Board responds to the impact of coronavirus, our top priorities are the health and safety of students and educators. We're working hard to make the SAT available in school and out of school as soon as possible.

June SAT and SAT Subject Test Administration

To keep students safe, and in alignment with public health guidance and school closures across 192 countries, we will not be able to administer the SAT or SAT Subject Tests on June 6, 2020.

Future SAT Administrations, Including September

If it's safe from a public health standpoint, we'll provide weekend SAT administrations every month through the end of the calendar year, beginning in August. This includes a new administration in September and the previously scheduled tests on August 29, October 3, November 7, and December 5.

Students can register for these administrations starting in May. We'll contact students directly when we have the exact date. Eligible students can register with a fee waiver.

For each administration, we're preparing to significantly expand our capacity for students to take the SAT once schools reopen. We're calling on our member schools and colleges, as well as local communities, to provide additional test center capacity so every student who wants to take the SAT can do so.

Students can get early access to register for August, September, and October if they're:

- Already registered for June
- In the high school class of 2021 and don't have SAT scores

March and May SAT Administrations

In response to the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic, College Board canceled the May 2, 2020, SAT and SAT Subject Test administration. Makeup exams for the March 14 administration (scheduled for March 28) were also canceled.

Students who already registered for May, whose March test centers were closed, or who do not receive March scores because of any irregularities will receive refunds.

SAT School Day Administrations

In alignment with coronavirus guidance from public health organizations, school closures across the country, and discussions with local education leaders, College Board can't reschedule the March 25 SAT School Day administration or provide administrations on April 14 and 28.

Almost all of our state partners and many of our district partners have expressed interest in administering the SAT during the school day in the fall. Some states, like Michigan, have already announced fall testing.

This is an important opportunity, as states and large districts who participate can provide the SAT for free to all their students. Specific information about state and district testing will be shared in the coming weeks. If students were scheduled to take the SAT as part of state-required testing, they can check with their school or district for updates.

PSAT 10 and PSAT 8/9

College Board can't provide the April PSAT 10 and PSAT 8/9 administrations. Unfortunately, there won't be opportunities for PSAT 10 or PSAT 8/9 testing this spring.

Future Testing Opportunities

We know students are anxious about how the coronavirus crisis will affect their college application process, including taking the SAT.

We're committed to giving students as many chances as we can to show their strengths to colleges, while relying on the guidance of public health officials. Throughout, we'll continue to focus on students with fee waivers and those with accommodations.

In the unlikely event that schools do not reopen this fall, College Board will provide a digital SAT for home use, like how we're delivering digital exams to 3 million AP students this spring. As we're doing with at-home Advanced Placement exams, we would ensure that at-home SAT testing is simple, secure and fair, accessible to all, and valid for use in college admissions.

Like the paper test, a digital, remote version of the SAT would measure what students are learning in school and what they need to know to be successful in college.

Resources and Support

To help students keep their college readiness skills sharp when many schools are closed, College Board and Khan Academy® will continue to provide free resources online (http://web.archive.org/web/20200420225828/https://www.khanacademy.org/sat?utm_source=cbcta-osp&utm_medium=cb418-cb&utm_campaign=practice), including full-length practice tests and personalized learning tools.

Together with our member schools and colleges, we will be flexible, thoughtful, and collaborative in exploring ways to continue to support student learning and provide opportunities to test during this challenging time.

Our focus will remain on student safety and ensuring students have the tools they need and opportunities to succeed on their path to college.

Please check this page regularly for updates.

If you have questions or concerns about your scheduled testing with College Board programs, please contact us as soon as possible. Given the high volume of inquiries, wait times may be longer than normal.

Updated Customer Service Hours

To better support you throughout this crisis, and in compliance with local, state, and federal safety regulations, College Board's phone support hours are now 9 a.m.—6 p.m. ET, Monday—Friday.

It's only April. Why are you canceling June already?

Following guidance from public health officials, we're canceling the June SAT. Right now, public health officials are saying it's unsafe to gather students in one place. Many states have closed school for the rest of the year.

Will students registered for June receive refunds?

In May, students registered for June can transfer their registration to one of the fall SAT administrations for free. Students who want to cancel their SAT registration instead can get a refund by contacting Customer Service.

Why didn't you cancel the June SAT when you canceled May and the March makeup?

We'd hoped that the June SAT administration would be able to proceed. We chose to cancel based on whether we could safely administer the SAT, given the evolving public health situation. Since our announcement about March and May, more states have closed schools for the rest of the year.

When will the additional testing date(s) be announced?

We'll give students specific details about additional SAT testing opportunities in the coming weeks.

When can I register for the upcoming administrations?

Registration for fall SAT administrations will open in May. We'll contact students directly to provide an exact date when it's available.

What if the new test date gets canceled too?

If the public health situation prevents us from safely administering tests in the fall, we're investing significant resources in developing a digital, remote testing option for all students. As we're doing with at-home Advanced Placement exams, we'd ensure that at-home SAT testing is simple, secure, accessible to all, and valid for use in college admissions.

Like the paper test, a digital, remote version of the SAT still would measure what students are learning in school and what they need to know to be successful in college.

I am applying to college. Are higher education institutions aware of these cancellations?

We're working closely with our partners in higher education who are helping us navigate this evolving situation, and will continue to rely on their expertise to ensure students have what they need as they apply to college during the 2020–2021 high school year. If you already applied to one or more higher education institutions, you can contact them directly for additional guidance.

I have fee waiver benefits but am not able to register online using a fee waiver. What can I do?

You can use your fee waiver for a future administration. Customer Service can help you when fall registration opens in May.

Will the German, Hebrew, and Italian Subject Tests for June be rescheduled in the near future?

Yes, these will be rescheduled for later this year. We'll inform you when the date is finalized.

I'm an international student. If June is canceled, when is the next opportunity to test?

If it's safe to do so from a public health standpoint, we'll provide multiple SAT administrations internationally through the end of the year, beginning in August. This includes a new administration in September and the previously scheduled tests on August 29, October 3, and December 5. We're exploring the possibility of providing an additional international administration.

In the unlikely event that schools do not reopen this fall, the College Board will provide a digital SAT for home use, much as we are delivering digital exams for 3 million AP students this spring. As we're doing with at-home Advanced Placement Exams, we would ensure that at-home SAT testing is simple; secure and fair; accessible to all; and valid for use in college admissions.
