IMC temporarily closes Americasmart, ADAC

Buildings are closing in compliance with Atlanta's recently announced shelter in place order

Aelliott // Associate Editor // March 25, 2020

Keeping with shelter-in-place guidelines released by the city of Atlanta on March 23, International Market Centers closed Americasmart Atlanta, the Atlanta Convention center at Americasmart and the Atlanta Decorative Arts Center to the public at 5 p.m. on March 24.

The shelter-in-place order, which is set to last for at least 14 days, requires that all city residents shelter in place and that all non-essential businesses temporarily close in an effort to help stem the spread of COVID-19.

Closures of IMC's Atlanta properties on account of the order will impact public access to things like Shop the Mart openings at Americasmart, which give the public entrance to Building 3's jewelry, accessories and apparel exhibitors.

"Our main priority is the health and safety our customers, our team, our families and our community," says Bob Maricich, IMC CEO. "The situation in Georgia, like all states, is evolving rapidly, and we are reacting to new information and sharing it as quickly as possible."

IMC tenants and staff still will have access to buildings on each campus for essential business support so long as appropriate social distancing practices are observed. Additionally, in-progress construction and tenant improvements in individual showrooms will continue throughout the properties, provided proper social distancing precautions are taken.

"These past several weeks have been like nothing we have experienced in recent history," continues Maricich in a release. "We are all navigating an unprecedented and highly fluid situation
