Novel Coronavirus Update

The 2020 National Restaurant Association Show will take place as planned in May, and we are watching closely for new developments around the Novel Coronavirus (COVID19 or 2019-nCoV) situation to keep the Foodservice community apprised of the latest updates. This page will keep you posted on new information, as well as our approach to keep our exhibitors and attendees healthy and safe.

Update: March 10, 2020

The National Restaurant Association Show team shares the global concern about the emerging and rapidly evolving Novel Coronavirus (COVID19 or 2019-nCoV) situation and continues to monitor the situation closely, following all guidance and recommended safety measures issued by the World Health Organizations, the national Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and state and local health authorities.

The safety of our exhibitors and attendees is of the utmost importance to us. As such, we continue to work closely with the city of Chicago and McCormick place. Some helpful resources are provided below.

If our assessment of the situation changes, based on new and evolving developments or updated information, we will promptly update this statement regarding the status of the 2020 National Restaurant Association Show accordingly.

Helpful resources :

- The City of Chicago shares local updates, travel alerts and tips to help minimize risk.
- McCormick Place shares details about their safety and cleaning precautions.
- The U.S. Travel Association offers healthy travel practices and guidance for travelers.
- The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention \(CDC\) features the latest global updates, health and travel information and guidance for large gatherings.
- The World Health Organization offers advice, reports and updates on the outbreak.
